

BEING A COWBOY

The cowboy event is for Wild Wild West lovers keen on action-packed westerns, entertaining competitions and loud parties.

DETAILED DESCRIPTION:

INVITATION

A few weeks in advance each guest receives an email invitation that looks like a poster advertising some good old western. It includes the venue, the time and the dress code which is jeans, cowboy shoes (or any similar type of boots), a plaid shirt, a hat for protecting the head from the sun and genuine leather or fur accessories, such as belts, wallets, purses, bracelets, etc.

WELCOMING OF THE GUESTS

At the entrance to the venue there is an information desk where several charming cowgirls (event assistants/actresses) meet the guests. They give each guest a program showing where they can find different kinds of entertainment and a cowboy scarf. If the guests are interested, the cowgirls show them how to make the cowboy's knot on their scarves. The information desk is open as long as the event goes on, so that the guests can get help, if needed, at any time.

OPENING OF THE EVENT

The Sheriff (aka the Host of the event) appears on the stage to greet the guests and list types of entertainment available on the venue. The event opens with a cowboy dance – a short but spectacular performance by professional dancers. Then the Company's CEO comes to the stage and announces that the cowboy party is officially open. For an extra touch, a cannon is fired and the fun begins.

DAY ENTERTAINMENT:

The guests have the program and the map of the venue, so they can choose any entertainment that appeals to them and have fun.

- A cowboy and his horse always come in a package. The guests have a chance to ride a horse, which is not as easy as it may seem as there may be some obstacles, such as a river or a fallen tree, to overcome.
- No doubt, we all know what a rodeo is. Have you ever wanted to try it yourselves? Then hop on an artificial bull and find out how long you can stay in the seat. The winner receives a gift – a bottle of good whiskey.
- To find out how strong they are, the guests can take part in an arm wrestling competition. Professional arm wrestlers will show how to do it correctly for the best result.
- There is also a competition of throwing horseshoes where the guests find out who can throw a horseshoe further and more accurately than others.
- Those keen on shooting are invited to the shooting range where the best shots receive soft toys as a prize.

NIGHT ENTERTAINMENT:

- The guests can take part in a darts competition and win prizes in cowboy style – barrels of beer. The referee is a professional to ensure that the competition is fair and the rules are followed.
- There is a tournament of 'drunk' checkers for the toughest cowboys: the board and the rules are the same, but the regular pieces are replaced with liqueur glasses (or any other small glasses) filled with whiskey. When a player's piece is captured, he has to remove it from the board and drink the whiskey that was inside.

The guests who aren't competitive can enjoy a performance by a well-known country band and taste a beer in a saloon set up not far from the stage.

Dinner

At dinner time (it's marked in the program, so the guests should come back to a particular spot at a fixed hour) professional cooks show the guests their skill in a very unusual cooking method: meat is grilled on a huge barbecue using garden fork points as spits.

The dinner is followed by a beer drinking competition where cowboys have to drink beer from a one litre mug using a straw. The first one to finish his drink is the winner.

Cowboy dances (line-dancing)

The Sheriff invites the guests to learn the basics of line-dancing from professional dancers. They can all dance together and set a record of the biggest number of people dancing a line dance at the same time.

The Coolest Cowboy/Cowgirl Awards

The most creative cowboys/cowgirls wearing the best costumes are awarded diplomas (cowboy style decorated with horseshoes and similar cowboy stuff, prepared in advance). The most energetic cowboys/cowgirls are awarded prizes – flasks for whiskey.

Cabaret

Being one of cowboy's favorite pastimes, a spectacular performance by charming cabaret dancers is a must on such a night. Those keen on dancing are welcome to join the dancers.

A Cowboy Disco

The evening continues with a country music band, and everyone is welcome to sing along and hit the dance floor.

Grand Finale: Fireworks

As for the peak of the night, we suggest musical fireworks.

Afterwards the guests can spend time chatting, enjoying shots of whiskey or dancing in a disco (DJ).

We wish you a stunning party!
